What are the top policies from the Green Paper that the Government should focus on in the White Paper and why?

The paper should focus on two main priorities, without which everything else is rendered academic.

Firstly, governments should study the farms of people who have effectively drought-proofed their land and use that knowledge to replicate the processes across the nation.

Secondly, government should ensure the creation of industries based on innovative crops which offer a chance of being very profitable for farmers, most of the crops we currently farm are marginally profitable at best.

What policies from the Green Paper don't you support and why?

General Comment

There are many simple and cheap things we should be doing to fix agriculture in Australia, unfortunately this paper doesn't seem to have the vision and knowledge to achieve this.
