

Agricultural Competitiveness White Paper – Submission IP38

Roslyn Hudson

Submitted 11 January 2014 via website's contact form

I believe there is a future in the dried fruit industry

Things need to be put in place where processors import fruit mix it with ours and call it Australian is so wrong ,

They import it at a fraction of the cost and the growers are paying the price as they import it cheaper than we can grow it we produce what they say and they still pay a crap money we are trying to do all the modern technology but we are not getting the true price for our product , it is not promoted properly labelling in this country is a joke